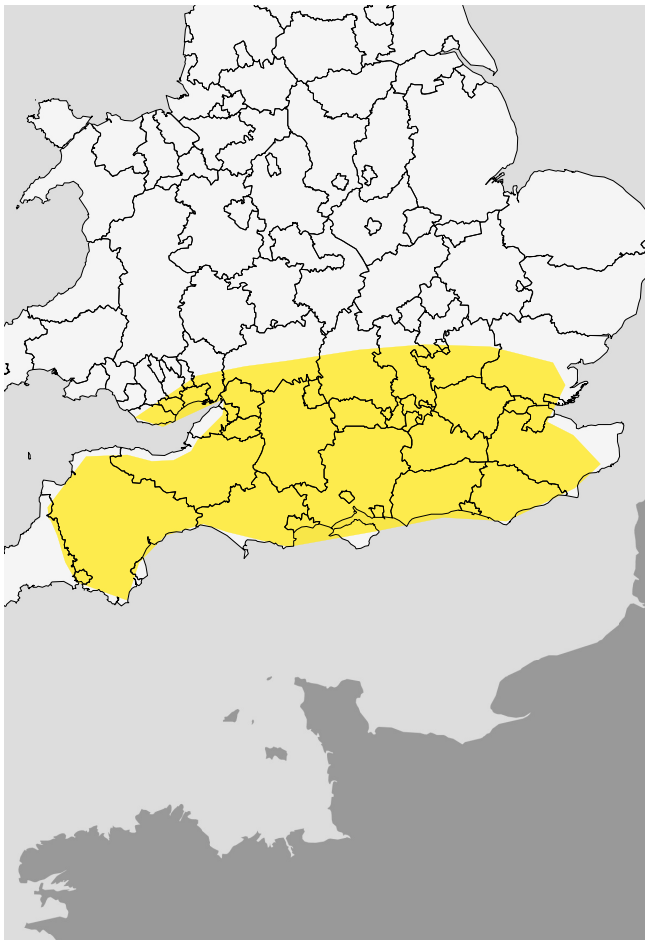
Yellow warning
Ice

Between
00:15 Thu 9 Jan 2025 and
10:30 Thu 9 Jan 2025



Following rain and snow, many cold wet surfaces are likely to freeze later tonight, producing icy conditions in places.

What to expect

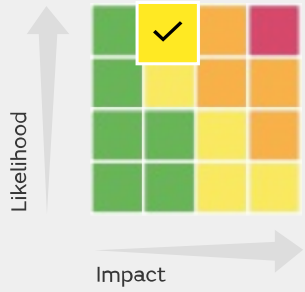
- Icy stretches on some untreated roads, pavements and cycle paths are likely to increase the chance of accidents and injuries

Further details

Surfaces have been left wet and cold following Wednesday evening's rain and snow. While some surfaces may dry out before they freeze, it is likely that many untreated surfaces may become icy and hazardous overnight into Thursday morning - this will tend to happen sooner in the west, some eastern areas perhaps marginal for freezing.

What should I do?

Keep yourself and your family safe when it is icy. Plan to leave the house at least five minutes earlier than normal.



✓ High likelihood of low impacts

Not needing to rush, reduces your risk of accidents, slips, and falls.

If you need to make a journey on foot, try to use pavements along main roads which are likely to be less slippery. Similarly, if cycling, try and stick to main roads which are more likely to have been treated.

Give yourself the best chance of avoiding delays by checking road conditions if driving, or bus and train timetables, amending your travel plans if necessary.

Be prepared for weather warnings to change: when a weather warning is issued, the Met Office recommends staying up to date with the weather forecast in your area.
